FLASHBACK 1963: Wrestling suffered an immeasurable loss when Lou Thesz died on April 28, 2002, at age 86 following triple-bypass heart surgery. His 90-minute draw with fellow Hall of Famer Danny Hodge in Houston is among the hundreds of matches Thesz wrestled that will be recorded by history as all-time classics.

1. THE WWF BECOMES WWE

As wrestling struggled to find its identity in 2002, following the demise of WCW and ECW the previous year, the World Wrestling Federation lost its struggle to literally maintain its own identity and, on the May 6 edition of Raw, Jim Ross and Jerry Lawler announced that the company had changed its name to World Wrestling Entertainment.

The World Wide Fund For Nature forced the change after a decade-long legal battle. Although both "WWFs" came into existence in the early-1960s, Vince McMahon

Sr. and Toots Mondt had called their promotion the World Wide Wrestling Federation, and the extra "W" wasn't dropped until 1979. Both sides reached an agreement in 1994 that prevented the World Wrestling Federation from using the "WWF" acronym for marketing purposes outside of the North America.

The Fund accused the Fed of violating the agreement through its establishment of wwf.com on the World Wide Web, in addition to international television distribution, touring, and merchandising. The World Wide Fund sued the World Wrestling Federation in the U.K., where the Fund is based, and a high court agreed that the name of the wrestling WWF—and not the pandas' WWF—would have to go extinct.

With only one appeal remaining, Vince McMahon Jr. decided to go ahead with the change. WWE lost the subsequent appeal, which might have at least allowed the company to market vintage videotapes with the old WWF acronym and scratch logo. WWE executives tried to put on the best spin possible, noting that "Entertainment" was a better description of what the company does anyway.

As a result of the switch, WWE coined a new slogan: "Get the 'F' out!"

2. WWE CREATES TWO DISTINCT BRANDS

When the WWF purchased WCW in March 2001, Vince McMahon's intention was to be the first promoter to operate two separate wrestling leagues. WCW's damaged reputation in the marketplace, along with the WWF creative team's botched attempt at an invasion storyline, caused the experiment to fail. But McMahon realized that fans yearned for at least simulated competition and, while maintaining the box office strength of the company name, decided to implement a brand extension by creating separate rosters for Raw and Smackdown shows.

McMahon and Ric Flair, the on-air owners of Smackdown and Raw, respectively, participated in a brand extension draft on April 1. The Rock was the number-one draft pick, as McMahon selected him for Smackdown, in addition to Hulk Hogan, Kurt Angle, Chris Benoit, and Edge. The Undertaker was the official number-two draft pick, as Flair selected him for Raw, in addition to the entire NWO, Rob Van Dam, Booker T, Kane, and Brock Lesnar.

Smackdown also gained World tag team champions Billy Gunn and Chuck Palumbo, and Raw secured hardcore champion Buh Buh Ray Dudley. Undisputed champion Triple-H and women's champ Jazz were recognized by both brands.

As 2002 unfolded, Raw and Smackdown became even more separate. After controlling both brands for a short period, Vince McMahon named former WCW President Eric Bischoff the new general manager of Raw on July 15 and, the following night, Stephanie McMahon announced she would be GM for Smackdown.

On August 26, then-undisputed champ Brock Lesnar became the exclusive property of Smackdown, and Bischoff retaliated by crowning Triple-H the "world heavyweight champion" for Raw. Stephanie began referring to Lesnar as simply the "WWE champion." To simplify matters, PWI chose to recognize Lesnar as the WWE Smackdown champion, and Triple-H as the WWE Raw champion.

Vince McMahon eventually announced that surprise jumps between brands would become illegal, and that talent had to be swapped in fair trades between the GMs in the future. After Raw gained control of the World tag team championship, Stephanie implemented a tournament for the newly created WWE Smackdown tag team title, which was won by Kurt Angle and Chris Benoit at No Mercy. Also by year's end, WWE allowed Raw to have sole control of the women's championship.

3. WWE BECOMES DESPERATE IN WRESTLING DOWNTURN

What WWE numbers were trending downward in 2002? All the numbers that WWE never wants to go down is the answer, including television ratings, pay-per-view buy rates, live attendance figures, and merchandising sales. The overall rating for Raw, which reached as high as 7.0 at the peak of the wrestling boom, averaged 3.5 in 2003. The overall rating for Smackdown, which averaged 4.7 soon after its debut in September 1999, was lucky to reach 3.7 in 2003.

Pay-per-view buy rates took a plunge, but not quite as drastically, probably because only the most diehard of fans purchase PPVs anyway. Nevertheless, the lower numbers prompted WWE to cancel plans to hold separate pay-per-views for Raw and Smackdown.

Live attendance took the hardest hit. The brand extension enabled WWE to run nearly twice the number of house shows, but the total attendance was barely higher than when the company ran half as many. By the end of 2002, WWE had canceled a number of house shows due to poor advance ticket sales.

In a desperate attempt to reverse WWE's fortunes, Vince McMahon pulled some shock concepts out of the "Attitude" playbook, but those storylines came across as more pathetic than cutting-edge. Eric Bischoff encouraging "hot lesbian action," otherwise known as HLA, and Triple-H simulating sex with a mannequin in a coffin, sunk Raw's ratings even lower. Although the wedding ceremony between Billy Gunn and Chuck Palumbo on Smackdown seemed equally desperate, the angle was cleverly laid out and resulted in some positive mainstream press.

WWE continued to do well in two categories, however. Advance ticket sales for pay-per-view events remained excellent, with WrestleMania X8 at the Toronto SkyDome selling out months ahead of time, and Survivor Series breaking WWE's previous record for the fastest sellout at Madison Square Garden, which had been set by the 1999 Royal Rumble.

Likewise, revenue from WWE's international tours grew by 544 percent. WWE had earned $2.2-million for two international events in 2001, and that figure rose to $14.1-million for 15 events in 2002. Another revenue bonus was the out-of-court settlement with the Parents Television Council, which WWE had accused of libel and slander, specifically relating to the Lionel Tate "wrestling death" case in Florida. WWE won a healthy $3.5-million, but the McMahons also had to consider it a significant moral victory.

4. BROCK LESNAR FULFILLS DESTINY AS "THE NEXT BIG THING"

Everyone figured Brock Lesnar would be a main-eventer when he debuted on WWE television with his agent, Paul Heyman, but no one guessed that he would reach that status so quickly. Lesnar, who had held the Southern tag team title with Shelton Benjamin in OVW, got his ticket punched for greatness in the King of the Ring tournament. There, he beat Test to advance to the final, and he defeated Rob Van Dam—with help from Heyman—in less than five minutes to become the 2002 King of the Ring.

As a bonus, it was announced that the winner of the tournament would receive a shot at the undisputed title at SummerSlam. The Rock was the champ when SummerSlam rolled around, and he defended the title against Lesnar at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, New York.

The former NCAA heavyweight champion surpassed expectations. The New York fans rallied behind Lesnar and booed The Rock during much of the main-event encounter. The fans cheered when Lesnar planted Rock with the F5 to capture the undisputed title. With The Rock leaving for Hollywood again, that must have been beautiful music to Vince McMahon. Lesnar's manhandling of Hulk Hogan on Smackdown in August, in addition to his easy win over Ric Flair on Raw earlier in the summer, indicated how much McMahon was willing to invest in the University of Minnesota graduate.

Lesnar helped Smackdown edge out Raw in the ratings, and went on to have an incredible victory over The Undertaker in a "Hell In A Cell" match at No Mercy. His TV and PPV undefeated streak ended at Survivor Series, where Paul Heyman turned against him by helping The Big Show capture the Smackdown title. That didn't dim Lesnar's star power, however, as he became Smackdown's most popular star after Survivor Series.

At the end of 2002, Lesnar appeared headed for a showdown against Smackdown champion Kurt Angle at WrestleMania XIX.

5. STEVE AUSTIN LEAVES WWE

After complaining about the direction of his character for a couple of months, Steve Austin boarded an airplane headed for Texas just before the June 10 edition of Raw went on the air—without even notifying anyone he was leaving. “Stone-Cold” was already locked into his passenger seat by the time Jim Ross, the vice president of talent relations and one of Austin’s best friends, contacted him via cell phone.

“It’d be like John Wayne becoming a coward in a big fight,” commented Ross on the June 15 edition of Confidential. “You never saw it happen.”

Vince McMahon buried Austin even further. “He took his ball and went home, and obviously I’m pissed off,” said the WWE chairman on the same program. “I think this was the single most selfish act that Steve Williams, ‘Stone-Cold’ Steve Austin, could have ever done in World Wrestling Entertainment.”

But Austin also had problems at home, most notably a domestic disturbance on the same weekend of the Confidential broadcast. Austin’s wife, Debra, suffered a bruised and swollen cheek, along with a swollen right eye, in the incident. Although Debra didn’t press charges, prosecutors went ahead with the domestic abuse case anyway.

That resulted in a warrant being issued for his arrest on August 12, and Austin turned himself in to authorities the following day. He was charged with misdemeanor assault and was detained briefly before posting a $5,000 bond.

Austin pled “no contest” to the charges on November 25 in Bexar County, Texas. He was sentenced to a $1,000 fine, one year’s probation, 80 hours of community service, and counseling for family violence. He was also prohibited from drinking alcohol for one year, except for “Steve-weisers” related to his wrestling performances.

“It’s been a chaotic few months,” Austin told Reuters outside the courtroom. “I’m not a regular in the court system, so I’m glad to get it behind me. This has been a drag.”

As the year drew to a close, Austin agreed to appear at several autograph signings, and McMahon openly confirmed that “Stone-Cold” would return to WWE in 2003.

6. THE JARRETTS ESTABLISH NWA-TNA

During the past couple of years, a few wealthy entrepreneurs who knew virtually nothing about wrestling became unsuccessful promoters. Likewise, a few promoters with brilliant wrestling minds didn't have enough money to make a go of it. That left many insiders and fans begging Jerry Jarrett, who operated the Mid-Southern territory for decades and had a healthy bankroll, to get back into the game.

But how could a major league promotion survive without a national cable contract? Jarrett decided upon the risky concept of basing his company's entire revenue on pay-per-view buy rates. His son, Jeff, became an equal partner, and encouraged Jerry to affiliate their new promotion with the NWA. That's how NWA: Total Nonstop Action was born.

The Jarretts launched NWA-TNA on June 19 with a pay-per-view emanating from Huntsville, Alabama. Ken Shamrock captured the vacant NWA title in a Royal Rumble-style "Gauntlet For The Gold" that also included Jeff Jarrett, Scott Hall, Steve Corino, Buff Bagwell, Rick Steiner, and country music star Toby Keith. TNA pay-per-views continued to run for two hours every Wednesday night, at $9.95 per event.

After discovering that their revenue stream was not as strong as they had hoped it would be, the Jarretts were forced to downsize in terms of star power (at least temporarily) and production (the Nashville Fairgrounds became the promotion's permanent home). Their fortunes improved when they entered into a partnership with a company called Panda Energy.

Wrote announcer and behind-the-scenes executive Jeremy Borash on TNA's Web site: "The ability to operate a successful wrestling company on a national level is something very few people understand, or have ever been able to do well ... Thankfully, Jerry Jarrett has experience on the 'business' side of wrestling, with most people agreeing that he is second only to Vince McMahon in that area."

But mixed with that optimism was some desperation, as the Jarretts hired Vince Russo as a consultant and on-air performer. Russo masqueraded as Mr. Wrestling III for several weeks before instigating a factional war between his Sports Entertainment Xtreme group (SEX), which included stars such as Low-Ki and Christopher Daniels, and Jeff Jarrett's band of old-schoolers, which included Curt Hennig and The Road Warriors. Meanwhile, James Mitchell's cult of evildoers lurked in the shadows.

7. "HULKAMANIA" RUNS WILD... AGAIN

Fans really wanted to experience "Hulkamania" again, but not even Hulk Hogan or Vince McMahon realized how much. Hogan caused plenty of excitement when he, Scott Hall, and Kevin Nash returned to WWE and resurrected the NWO at No Way Out, and everyone wondered how much and how quickly the heel clique would grow. But the real question turned out to be this: When would "Hulkamania" run wild again?

When Hogan and The Rock had a nose-to-nose confrontation on Raw on the night after No Way Out, people started to think less about the NWO and more about "Hulkamania." At WrestleMania X8 in Toronto, the fans breathed life back into it and loudly cheered Hogan as he battled The Rock, even as "Hollywood" whipped "The Great One" with his weightlifting belt. The Rock paid tribute to Hogan the following night on Raw, and the "Hulkster" was officially back.

Hogan embarked on a nostalgic victory lap through WWE, and due in part to The Undertaker's interference, beat Triple H for his sixth WWF/WWE title at Backlash. Yet his run was short-lived, as The Undertaker—as he had done a decade earlier—pinned Hogan to become the champion at Judgment Day.

The "Hulkster" continued to soak in the cheers on Smackdown, and teamed with Edge to capture his first World tag team championship. Times were sweet, but not "too sweet" for Hogan throughout the spring and summer. The heroic return ended when Brock Lesnar defeated Hogan cleanly—and in brutal fashion—in August.

A nagging back injury and creative differences prevented Hogan from returning to WWE. But he had plenty of other projects. He appeared in telephone long-distance commercials and went on a book tour for his autobiography, Hollywood Hulk Hogan. Instead of winding down his career as a fading legend, Hogan stood poised for a very exciting and profitable 2003. He had already satisfied wrestling fans' craving for "Hulkamania," but was also prepared to exploit the mainstream wave of 1980s nostalgia that was about to break.

8. THE PASSING OF LEGENDS ... AND THE TRAGEDY OF DEATHS TOO SOON

As difficult as it is to quantify a death, Lou Thesz' passing on April 28 marked the passing of the industry's greatest living legend. With six NWA World title reigns that totaled 18 years between 1937 and 1966, Thesz was considered the last of the hookers, as "performances" became more important in pro wrestling. Just as significant as his contribution as arguably the best world champion of the 20th century was his dedication to preserving the sport's history in his retirement years.

Stanley Weston, who died only a few weeks before Thesz, spent his life compiling the rough draft of that history through the family of wrestling magazines he created, including PWI, The Wrestler, and Inside Wrestling. Weston never competed in the ring, but it can be argued that he was one of the most influential non-wrestlers ever.

Unfortunately, there were other veteran figures who died in 2002, including Mighty Igor, Nelson Royal, Swede Hanson, Nick Roberts, Bobby Managoff, Wahoo McDaniel, Don Owen, Mike "The Alaskan" York, Moose Cholak, and the original "Mr. Wrestling," Tim Woods.

Even more troubling was the number of stars struck down at relatively young ages last year. Davey Boy Smith was the most famous of those names. "The British Bulldog" was found dead of a heart attack in a hotel room while on vacation in British Columbia. He was only 39.

"Big" Dick Dudley was another wrestler who died young. The former ringside enforcer for Buh Buh Ray and D-Von Dudley in ECW, who had recently made a comeback in XPW, was found dead in his New York apartment. Two auto accidents had contributed to his deteriorating condition, but his death was still a shock to family and friends. Similarly, former Memphis mainstay Billy Joe Travis, who had been rumored to be on a downhill slide during the past couple of years, died of a heart attack at his mother's Kentucky home.

Perhaps the saddest deaths were the ones that couldn't have been prevented by their victims. Ted "Rocco Rock" Petty, whose thug-like character was the opposite of what he was in real life, died of a heart attack while traveling from a wrestling show in New Jersey to another in Philadelphia. His family has a history of heart disease. The former English teacher and collegiate wrestling coach was 49. Also of note, Jeff Peterson, a high-flyer who inspired the wrestling community by overcoming cancer and making an in-ring comeback, finally succumbed to the disease at a hospital in Tampa. The "All-American" was only 21.

Other members of the wrestling fraternity who died in 2002 included ex-WWE developmental wrestler Slick Robbie D, "Masked Medic" Tony Gonzalez, former ECW whipping boy Erich Kulas, ex-FMW President Shoichi Arai, and former WCW and XWF front office worker Mike Lima.

9. VINCE RUSSO: THE CREATIVE DIRECTOR WITH NINE LIVES

Many insiders thought Vince Russo had destroyed his career when he quit the WWF with no notice in the fall of 1999 to head the creative team of the struggling WCW. When that company died in 2001, it was believed that Russo would never work in the industry again.

But one shouldn't underestimate panicking promoters. Despite Russo's abrupt departure, Vince McMahon offered him a spot on WWE's creative team in June. A fireball of controversy ensued inside the company, and Russo's status was downgraded to that of at-home consultant within days. Stephanie McMahon, Hulk Hogan, and other powerbrokers were said to be skeptical of the hiring.

Said Triple-H during an interview on wwe.com, "If [Russo is] looking for it to be just about him or something like that, and that was a problem—he didn't want to be part of the team or something like that—that won't work out, because that's what we are."

During another interview on wwe.com, The Undertaker compared Russo's unprofessional behavior to Steve Austin's. "Here's another guy who walked out right before a TV show," he said. "Initially, I guess he was going to be a lead writer or something like that. I don't even know what all the background is. But we definitely don't need anything negative at this point."

In what was probably a mutual decision, Russo and McMahon parted ways before a contract was even signed. Only weeks later, Russo officially joined NWA-TNA's creative team. He had already served as an unofficial consultant for several weeks before joining WWE.

By November, Russo was an on-air performer again, something he obviously loves. Dressed as Mr. Wrestling III, Russo helped Jeff Jarrett beat Ron Killings for the NWA title. But that was only the beginning of Russo's escapades. He became the leader of Sports Entertainment Xtreme (SEX). Russo and his "new blood" feuded with TNA's weak version of a "millionaires club," led by Commissioner Bob Armstrong and NWA champion Jeff Jarrett.

Obviously, Russo viewed his TNA stint as a golden opportunity. He could take all those failed WCW storylines and try to make them work in TNA. Look forward to a Survivor Series-style double-cross in 2003.

10. MAJOR STARS MAKE COMEBACKS

Three former main-eventers returned to action, proving they still had the stuff to carry the show, even when critics had said their best days were over. Shawn Michaels, Bill Goldberg, and Scott Steiner—former world champs all—became showstoppers once again in 2002.

Shawn Michaels shocked fans by returning to WWE as the newest member of the NWO. When "The Heartbreak Kid" said that the back injuries that forced him into retirement in 1998 were still plaguing him, few people expected to see him back in the ring as a competitor. But after Triple-H turned against him, Michaels battled his former friend at SummerSlam in a breathtaking streetfight. Michaels won that match and went on to win Triple-H's Raw title in the six-way "Elimination Chamber" match at Survivor Series. Although Helmsley regained the belt in a best-of-three-falls specialties match at Armageddon, HBK proved that if WWE used him correctly, he could remain a top star for years to come.

Bill Goldberg became the industry's hottest free agent when AOL Time Warner presented him with an irresistible buyout offer in June. Following a 20-month hiatus, Goldberg returned to the ring at an All-Japan show in Tokyo. He defeated Satoshi Kojima on August 30 at Budokan Hall and beat Taiyo Kea the following evening. On his Web site, Goldberg addressed the possibility of a deal with WWE, a company he has criticized in the past. "Hey, it's a business, so I definitely have to evaluate all avenues. And if everything's right, it could be an option. However, there have to be a number of people in that equation who are happy, not just me."

Scott Steiner, just like Michaels, had been placed on the permanent disabled list by a lot of people. Other than a brief reign as World Wrestling All-Stars champ, Steiner hadn't seen much action since WCW's demise in March 2001. He returned to WWE after nearly a decade-long absence at Survivor Series, where he attacked Christopher Nowinski of Raw and Matt Hardy of Smackdown. After injuries to his back, left foot, shoulders, and biceps in recent years, it remained to be seen whether "Big Poppa Pump" could remain a major player for long in WWE. Eric Bischoff won a bidding war with Stephanie McMahon, and Steiner went to Raw, where he immediately issued a challenge to that brand's champion, Triple-H.

2002: THE YEAR IN WRESTLING

In this extended section, we provide a comprehensive overview of the significant events of the year just passed. Title changes are listed in the section beginning on page 90. For obituaries, please turn to page 30.

January 7: Spike Dudley and Tazz score an upset victory over Buh Buh Ray and D-Von Dudley for the WWF World tag team title on Raw, emanating from Madison Square Garden in New York. The underdogs thrive in the hardcore-rules match, and "Duchess Of Dudleyville" Stacy Keibler unintentionally distracts Buh Buh Ray with her shapely posterior, enabling Spike to nail D-Von with the Dudley dog and get the three-count ... Mighty Igor dies (see page 30).

January 16: At an OVW television taping, Jim Cornette announces that Randy Orton will be promoted to WWE. Prototype (John Cena) challenges Orton to a final match and uses his Proto-plex to humble the promising youngster.

January 20: Less than three weeks after his return from a torn quadriceps, Triple-H eliminates Kurt Angle to win the Royal Rumble and earn a WWF undisputed title shot at WrestleMania X8. Goldust, Val Venis, and "Mr. Perfect" Curt Hennig make their returns to the company in the Rumble event. Also at the pay-per-view, undisputed champion Chris Jericho astounds his critics with another victory over The Rock, Ric Flair beats Vince McMahon in a streetfight between on-air co-owners, and Intercontinental champ William Regal uses his brass knuckles to score a surprise win over his challenger, Edge.

January 29: Dallas Page's power of positive thinking helps him overcome Christian for the European title on Smackdown. Page uses his Diamond cutter on his rival to the delight of the fans at Virginia's Norfolk Scope, where former WCW loyalists savor his victory.

February 3: Nelson Royal dies (see page 30).

Jericho: Rocked Rock at Rumble

February 7: WWE and DirecTV announce they have settled on a new contract after a four-month blackout, starting with October 2001's No Mercy, had prevented DirecTV subscribers from watching WWF pay-per-views. Linda McMahon had asserted that DirecTV didn't deserve so much of the profits because, unlike cable companies, it did not have the expense of marketing events through distributors. The new contract will be in effect until August 2003.

February 16: Tadao Yasuda wins an IWGP title tournament in Tokyo. The overweight, fortysomething superstar is considered an unlikely champion, but his martial arts background and his accomplishments in Japan's Pride promotion give him credibility.

February 17: Hulk Hogan, Scott Hall, and Kevin Nash re-form the NWO at No Way Out. Despite their insincere requests for a "clean slate," the NWO members cause Steve Austin to lose his match against WWF undisputed champion Chris Jericho, and proceed to spray-paint "N-W-O" on his back afterward. Also at the pay-per-view, The Rock pins The Undertaker, special referee Stephanie McMahon helps Kurt Angle beat Triple-H to gain a WWE undisputed title shot at WrestleMania X8, and Intercontinental champion William Regal defeats Edge once again, this time in a "brass-knuckles-on-a-pole" match.

February 18: The Rock and Hulk Hogan debate who is "the best ever" during an electrifying face-to-face confrontation on Raw. Hogan accepts The Rock's challenge to a match at WrestleMania X8. Moments later, Scott Hall and Kevin Nash help Hogan attack and spray-paint "The Great One," and "Hollywood" drives a semi-truck into an ambulance containing the injured Rock. Also on the show, Triple-H is granted a rematch with Kurt Angle and defeats him to regain his WrestleMania title shot ... Former WWF developmental wrestler Slick Robbie D dies (see page 30).

February 19: Swede Hanson dies (see page 30).

February 20: Prototype (John Cena) defeats Leviathan (Batista) for the Ohio Valley Wrestling title in Jeffersonville, Indiana. It is considered the biggest victory of the 23-year-old star's fledgling career.

Prototype: Pumped up by big win

February 23: Ring of Honor brings together much of the top cruiserweight talent of the East and West Coasts at its debut show at the Murphy Recreational Center in Philadelphia. Low-Ki defeats Christopher Daniels and American Dragon in the three-way main event, and Super Crazy defeats Eddie Guerrero to become the first ROH Intercontinental champion ... Former wrestler and Texas promoter Nick Roberts dies (see page 30).

February 24: Only a few weeks after jumping from New Japan, Keiji Muto loses the All-Japan Triple Crown to Toshiaki Kawada. It is Kawada's fourth reign as champion. He defeats Muto with his folding power bomb ... World Wrestling All-Stars holds its first pay-per-view in the United States, live from the Aladdin Resort and Casino in Las Vegas. Although scheduled headliner Randy Savage fails to appear due to a financial dispute, WWA: The Revolution is considered a decent show by non-WWF standards. WWA champion Jeff Jarrett beats Savage's replacement, Brian Christopher, in the main event.

March 1: The WWF embarks on its "Smackdown" tour of the Far East, beginning at Yokohama Arena in Tokyo. Additional stops are scheduled for Singapore and Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

March 2: Donovan Morgan defeats A.J. Styles in the finals of the ECWA's Super 8 Tournament. Morgan also beats HWA stars Pepper Parks and Jamie Noble en route to his victory.

March 4: Tony Gonzalez, one-half of The Masked Medics, dies (see page 30).

March 9: Dan Severn defeats Shinya Hashimoto for the NWA title at Tokyo's Korakuen Hall. Controversy taints the victory after NWA President Jim Miller orders chief referee Fred Richards to speed up his three-counts when Hashimoto's shoulders are on the mat. Fans voice their disapproval as the portly Miller prances around the ring.

March 17: The Rock defeats Hulk Hogan, who receives surprising support from the enthusiastic crowd at the Toronto SkyDome, to earn bragging rights as "the best ever" at WrestleMania X8. Along with Hogan, Flair helps steal the show, despite his bloody no-disqualification loss to The Undertaker, who extends his WrestleMania undefeated streak to 10-0. Triple-H makes his comeback complete by defeating Chris Jericho, who has Stephanie McMahon in his corner, for the WWF undisputed title in the main event. Also at the pay-per-view, Rob Van Dam defeats William Regal for the Intercontinental title, and European champion Dallas Page pins Christian. WrestleMania X8 draws 68,237 people to the Toronto SkyDome, breaking WrestleMania VI's record at the same venue, and generates $3.9-million at the gate.

Jarrett vs. Christopher: PPV main event?

March 27: Steve Wilkos, the bald-headed security chief for The Jerry Springer Show, makes his debut at a sold-out MCW show in Glen Burnie, Maryland. The 6'3", 220-pound former Chicago cop helps Gillberg put away Chad Bowman and Dino Divine with double-sleepers.

April 1: Ric Flair and Vince McMahon participate in a brand extension draft, assembling the rosters for Raw and Smackdown, respectively.

McMahon, who won a coin toss to earn the first pick for Smackdown, selects The Rock, along with Hulk Hogan, Kurt Angle, Chris Benoit, Edge, and WWF World tag team champions Billy Gunn and Chuck Palumbo. Flair chooses The Undertaker, the NWO as a unit, Rob Van Dam, Booker T, Kane, Brock Lesnar, and Buh Buh Ray Dudley, among others. Steve Austin is not part of the draft because he walked out of WWE the day after WrestleMania X8. Both Raw and Smackdown continue to recognize undisputed champion Triple-H and women's champ Jazz.

April 2: Bobby Managoff dies (see page 30).

April 11: PWI founder Stanley Weston dies (see page 30).

April 18: Dallas Page aggravates existing back injuries during a match against Hardcore Holly on Smackdown. Page schedules appointments with several spinal specialists to determine whether he should have surgery, retire, or both.

April 19: The Rock's first starring vehicle, The Scorpion King, makes it nationwide premiere and earns $36.2-million in the first three days of its release. It reaches a total of $60.8-million within 10 days ... Wahoo McDaniel dies (see page 30).

April 21: Hulk Hogan beats Triple-H for his sixth WWF title at Backlash. After Chris Jericho prevents Hogan's pin of Triple-H, The Undertaker interferes by smashing Helmsley with a chair, enabling "Hollywood" to deliver the leg-drop for the pinfall. Also at the pay-per-view, Eddie Guerrero defeats Rob Van Dam for his second Intercontinental belt, Kurt Angle "goes Olympic" and hands Edge another PPV loss, and Tajiri regains the cruiserweight strap from Billy Kidman.

April 22: Bret Hart attempts to communicate with deceased relatives—including brothers Dean and Owen, and mother Helen—on ABC's Contact: Talking To The Dead. The program airs opposite Raw's second hour.

April 27: Spanky wins the right to call himself Shawn Michaels' best student at a Ring of Honor show in Philadelphia. Paul London, John Hope, Michael Shane, and American Dragon also compete in the gauntlet series, with Spanky using an acid drop to pin Dragon in the final match. Also at the show, WWF Intercontinental champ Eddie Guerrero teams with The Amazing Red to defeat Joel and Jose Maximo.

Spanky: HBK's finest student

April 28: Lou Thesz dies (see page 30).

May 4: Triple-H defeats The Undertaker in the main event of the U.K.'s Insurrexxion, emanating from Wembley Arena in London. Also at the pay-per-view, Steve Austin beats The Big Show, European champion Spike Dudley embarrasses William Regal in front of his countrymen to retain his title, and former WWF World tag team champs The Hardy Boyz defeat Brock Lesnar and Shawn Stasiak.

May 6: Jim Ross and Jerry Lawler announce that the World Wrestling Federation has changed its name to World Wrestling Entertainment during a broadcast of Raw. The company had lost a series of legal battles with the World Wide Fund For Nature, most recently a decision in a British high court, for the right to use the "WWF" acronym.

May 14: Erich Kulas, who was brutalized by New Jack in his only pro match, dies (see page 30).

May 16: "Big" Dick Dudley dies (see page 30).

May 17: Davey Boy Smith dies (see page 30).

May 19: The Undertaker ends Hulk Hogan's 28-day reign as WWE undisputed champ at Judgment Day. Vince McMahon distracts Hogan, who gives his long-time employer a legdrop. UT capitalizes by smashing a steel chair across Hogan's back and executing a choke-slam to capture the title. Undertaker continues the onslaught after the match. Also at the pay-per-view, Steve Austin defeats The Big Show and Raw owner Ric Flair in a handicap bout, Triple-H defeats Chris Jericho in a "Hell In A Cell" match that sends referee Tim White to the hospital with a separated shoulder, and Edge shaves Kurt Angle bald after winning a hair vs. hair bout.

May 28: NWA Vice President Bill Behrens strips Dan Severn of the heavyweight title because of his inability to appear at NWA-TNA's inaugural pay-per-view event the following month. Severn was already committed to a mixed martial arts competition the same night.

June 10: Just as he did right after WrestleMania X8, Steve Austin leaves WWE, but this time he walks out just hours before a Raw on which he was to be featured prominently goes on the air. Vince McMahon considers this an unforgivable act and condemns Austin on a Confidential broadcast later in the week.

June 19: NWA-TNA begins its weekly pay-per-view series with an event from Huntsville, Alabama. Ken Shamrock eliminates Malice (formerly known as The Wall) to win the main event, a "Gauntlet For The Gold" competition for the vacant NWA championship. Also on the pay-per-view, Jorge Estrada, Sonny Siaki, and Jimmy Yang defeat Jerry Lynn, A.J. Styles, and Low-Ki, Richard and Rod Johnson (The Shane Twins) beat James Storm and Psicosis, and the Dupps defeat Joey Matthews and Christian York. Like all subsequent TNA PPVs, the two-hour show costs $9.95.

June 20: WWE posts a startling announcement on its Web site that reads, "World Wrestling Entertainment welcomes back Vince Russo to the creative writing staff." This is a surprise to many WWE insiders, including Hulk Hogan, Triple-H, and The Undertaker. Vince McMahon's ears ache from howls of protest. Russo would be demoted to at-home consultant before he ever begins work and would leave the company before signing a contract.

June 22: Low-Ki defeats Prince Nana and The Amazing Red, Christopher Daniels beats Scoot Andrews and A.J. Styles, Spanky defeats Paul London and Jody Fleisch, and Doug Williams scores wins over Jay Briscoe and American

Shamrock: Survived the "Gauntlet"

Dragon at Ring of Honor's "Road To The Title" show in Philadelphia. Low-Ki, Daniels, Spanky, and Williams earn spots in a four-way match for the newly created Ring of Honor championship.

June 24: Bret Hart hits a pothole while riding his bicycle in Calgary, flies over the handlebars, and knocks his head against a curb. Hart, who isn't wearing a helmet, feels the symptoms of a stroke immediately. Physicians say the "Hitman" will have to undergo six months of rehabilitation to relearn how to walk.

June 26: Brock Lesnar defeats Test in the semifinals, and then Rob Van Dam in the tournament final to become the 2002 King of the Ring. Lesnar's agent, Paul Heyman, distracts Van Dam long enough for "The Next Big Thing" to plant RVD with the F5. Also at the pay-per-view, The Rock's interference doesn't prevent The Undertaker from retaining the WWE undisputed title against Triple-H, Kurt Angle uses his anklelock to force Hulk Hogan into submission, and Jamie Noble beats Billy Kidman and defending champ The Hurricane in a three-way match for the cruiserweight belt.

July 1: Leon "Vader" White concludes a bizarre evening of catching bullfrogs and catfish by driving his sports utility vehicle into a neighbor's bush near his home in Boulder County, Colorado. When police confront him, he responds by threatening to kill the officers' dogs, grabbing two baseball-sized rocks, and spitting at a state trooper. He is charged with drunken driving, resisting arrest, and several other offenses. White already had two drunken driving arrests on his record in Boulder County.

July 8: Kevin Nash goes down in agony after suffering a torn quadriceps during a 10-man tag team match on Raw. Nash was teaming with X-

Pac, The Big Show, Chris Benoit, and Eddie Guerrero against I-C champ Rob Van Dam, Booker T, Goldust, Buh Buh Ray Dudley, and Spike Dudley. It is predicted that Nash will miss at least six months.

July 10: During a meeting with an InDemand executive prior to an NWA-TNA event, the Jarretts learn their pay-per-views are drawing buy rates that are only in the 20,000 range, a far cry from the 50,000 to 80,000 they claim their consultant, Jay Hassman, was suggesting. The Jarretts question Hassman's integrity when they learn that he is also working for Team Services, which handles WWE's PPV account.

July 15: Vince McMahon introduces his fiercest rival ever, former WCW President Eric Bischoff, as the new general manager of Raw. Fans gasp as McMahon greets Bischoff with a big hug on the entrance ramp. Booker T sums up most people's feelings about Bischoff's surprise appearance: "Tell me I did not just see that!"

July 17: Reckless Youth wins the 2002 Shane Shamrock Memorial Cup at Michael's Eighth Avenue in Glen Burnie, Maryland. He defeats Tough Enough 2's Danny Carney in a qualifying bout, and emerges victorious in a six-way elimination match also involving Xavier, Adam Flash, Trent Acid, The Amazing Red, and the 2001 Shamrock Cup winner, Joey Matthews.

July 21: The Rock breaks the record for most WWE World titles by winning his seventh at Vengeance. "The Great One" uses the Rock bottom to pin Kurt Angle in a three-way match also involving defending champ The Undertaker to win the championship. Also at the pay-per-view, Lance Storm and Christian defeat Hulk Hogan and Edge for the World tag team belts, and Intercontinental champion Rob Van Dam beats Brock Lesnar by disqualification.

July 22: Triple-H defects to Raw after close friend Shawn Michaels persuades him to make the jump for "fun and friendship." Michaels seemingly wants a DX reunion, but Triple-H has other plans.

July 27: Low-Ki gains the most falls in a 60-minute "Ironman" match also involving Christopher Daniels, Spanky, and Doug Williams to win the newly created Ring of Honor title at "Crowning Of A Champion" in Philadelphia. He tearfully dedicates his victory to Russ Haas, brother of WWE developmental wrestler Charlie Haas.

August 1: Pacific Northwest promoter Don Owen dies (see page 30) ... Two men enter The Messiah's California apartment and use garden shears to cut off one of his thumbs. Messiah's loud screams prompt the assailants to flee the scene before doing even more harm. The indy star had recently left Xtreme Pro Wrestling and was concentrating primarily on his East Coast career in Combat Zone Wrestling.

August 7: Ron Killings becomes the first African-American to win the NWA title by pinning Ken Shamrock at the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Nashville, Tennessee. Special referee Rick Steamboat draws criticism for rolling Shamrock back into the ring, although Gran Apollo's blatant interference is what caused him to fall out in the first place. Steamboat makes the three-count nonetheless.

August 13: Steve Austin posts a bond of $5,000 and is released from custody after being arrested for misdemeanor assault. The previous day, a judge in Bexar County, Texas, had issued a warrant for Austin's arrest, stemming from a domestic abuse incident involving Austin and his wife, Debra, in June.

August 14: Don Harris causes controversy when he wears a T-shirt with a racist symbol, the lightning "S" logo once promoted by German Nazis, in the ring against Malice at an NWA-TNA pay-per-view. TNA officials later release a statement apologizing for the incident and stating they "have taken steps to make sure something like that doesn't happen again."

August 25: Brock Lesnar defeats The Rock for the undisputed WWE title at SummerSlam, held at Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, New York. Many fans cheer Lesnar and boo The Rock as "The Next Big Thing" uses an F5 to earn a clean pinfall over the so-called people's champion, who is headed back to Hollywood. Also at the pay-per-view, Rob Van Dam beats Chris Benoit to regain the Intercontinental championship, and Shawn Michaels—in his first WWE match in more than four years—emerges victorious in a streetfight against former DX teammate Triple-H.

Messiah: Sickening attack

Benoit: Got a boost from Brock

August 26: General Manager Stephanie McMahon announces that WWE undisputed champ Brock Lesnar has become exclusive property of Smackdown. Lesnar's agent, Paul Heyman says they agreed to Stephanie's deal in return for "a wad of cash."

August 30: Bill Goldberg steamrolls Satoshi Kojima at an All-Japan show at Tokyo's Budokan Hall, his first match in 20 months. He defeats Taiyo Kea just as easily the following night at the same venue.

August 31: Charlie Haas and Nova defeat Doug Basham and Damaja in the final of the inaugural Russ Haas Memorial Tag Team Tournament in Toms River, New Jersey. Phoenix Championship Wrestling tag team champions Tiger Khan and Prophet, Steve Corino and The Amazing Red, the Maximos, Chris Divine and Quiet Storm, Malice and Seven, Da Hit Squad, Joey Matthews and Christian York, Bo Dupp and Matt Vandal, Lance Cade and Nick Dinsmore, and The Ballard Brothers are among the other participants ... Xtreme Pro Wrestling stages "Hostile Takeover" at the old ECW Arena in Philadelphia, 18 months after its extreme rival had gone out of business. In the company's East Coast debut, XPW champion Shane Douglas is awarded a victory after Terry Funk's arm is cut wide open by glass from a broken beer bottle, Supreme bashes Angel with light tubes to retain his King of the Deathmatch title, and TV champ Kaos beats Chris Hamrick with help from his associates, G.Q Money and Veronica Caine.

September 2: Eric Bischoff crowns Triple-H the first "World heavyweight champion" of Raw (dubbed the Raw title by PWI and its sister publications) in response to WWE champion Brock Lesnar becoming exclusive property of Smackdown. Triple-H retains his newly awarded title against 16-time former world champion Ric Flair later in the night.

September 4: Smackdown champion Brock Lesnar distracts Doug Basham, enabling Chris Benoit to use a German suplex to pin the hated Ohio Valley star in the main event of "Fall Brawl," held in Louisville, Kentucky. Basham had been slated for a Smackdown title shot against Lesnar, who was not allowed to wrestle due to an injured elbow ... Former WCW and XWF front office worker Mike Lima dies (see page 30).

September 9: Raw hits a new low as General Manager Eric Bischoff instructs Ultimate Pro Wrestling divas Jenny Loony Lane and Savvy to engage in "hot lesbian action," dubbed HLA for short, before they are brutally attacked by Jamal and Rosie. Bischoff justifies the display by stating, "Controversy equals cash." The following day, TNN issues a press release condemning the incident. At the same show, Bradshaw suffers a torn biceps while teaming with Kane against Un-Americans Lance Storm and Christian. The injury occurs when Bradshaw attempts his clothesline from hell with his left arm, instead of his right. Bradshaw finishes the match and helps rescue Kane from an attack by the other two Un-Americans, William Regal and Test, later in the program. Bradshaw is expected to undergo four to six months of extensive rehabilitation before making his return.

September 12: Billy Gunn and Chuck Palumbo say "I don't" at the last moment during their commitment ceremony on Smackdown. Although this is considered one of WWE's most outrageous stunts ever, the company receives surprisingly positive press and even an endorsement from the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) before the show airs.

September 18: Sean Waltman debuts on NWA-TNA at the side of former NWO teammate Scott Hall. "Before we get fired from this place, which we probably will, let's go down in a blaze of glory and kick some ass," he says. The previous month, Waltman and WWE mutually agreed to a parting of the ways due mainly to creative differences. WWE allows Waltman to use "Syxx-Pac" as his ring moniker ... Joey Matthews and Christian York are forced to break up their team in Maryland Championship Wrestling after losing a special stipulation match to their long-time rivals Rich Myers and Earl the Pearl at "Tag Wars 2K2" in Glen Burnie, Maryland. The Holy Rollers take advantage of a high-flying mistake by Matthews to earn the victory in the falls-count-anywhere match.

September 21: Rocco Rock dies (see page 30).

September 22: The Undertaker battles Smackdown champion Brock Lesnar to a double-disqualification at Unforgiven. It is the first non-finish of a WWE pay-per-view main event in four years. Both combatants manhandle the referee before he calls for the bell. Also at the pay-per-view, Ric Flair shocks the crowd by hitting Rob Van Dam with a sledgehammer to help Triple-H keep his Raw title, Trish Stratus beats Molly Holly for the women's strap, and Chris Benoit uses the ropes for leverage to pin Kurt Angle.

'Pac and Hall: Short-lived reunion

September 25: NWA-TNA X champion Jerry Lynn scores a big win for his division by defeating NWA heavyweight champion Ron Killings. A.J. Styles and Kid Kash, Lynn's rivals, give him an assist in a show of divisional pride. Only Lynn's X title is on the line. Killings had gained a tainted victory over Lynn when he defended the NWA belt against him the previous week.

September 29: Mike "The Alaskan" York dies (see page 30).

October 7: Raw champion Triple-H accuses Intercontinental champ Kane of killing his high school sweetheart, Katie Vick, in a drunk driving accident and raping her corpse many years earlier. It is the beginning of WWE's most controversial storyline ever.

October 8: A jury clears WWE of all charges relating to the sexual harassment lawsuit filed by bodybuilder Nicole Bass in the Federal District Court for the Eastern District of New York. Bass had accused agent Steve Lombardi (The Brooklyn Brawler) of groping her during a flight to England in May 1999, and alleged that WWE engaged in a pattern of physical abuse leading to her wrongful termination.

October 14: Masa Chono escapes the clutches of Joanie Laurer's STF to plant the former WWE diva with a kick and score the pinfall at the Tokyo Dome. He then gives Laurer a spanking for good measure. Chono says he won't grant Laurer a rematch unless she undergoes a sex change.

October 16: NWA champion Ron Killings blinds Curt Hennig with a foreign substance, and receives a low-blow assist from Jeff Jarrett, to retain his title at the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Nashville. The following week, Mr. Wrestling III hands Killings a pair of brass knuckles to knock out Hennig for another dirty win.

October 20: Triple-H unifies his Raw title with Kane's Intercontinental championship at No Mercy, where he smashes "The Big Red Machine" with a sledgehammer and finishes him off with the pedigree. Also at the pay-per-view, Smackdown champion Brock Lesnar devastates The Undertaker with the F5 to emerge victorious inside a "Hell In A Cell," and Kurt Angle and Chris Benoit defeat Rey Mysterio Jr. and Edge in a scientific thriller to win the newly created Smackdown tag team championship in a tournament final.

October 21: Raw champ Triple-H enters a funeral parlor, wearing a Kane mask and a T-shirt that reads "Big Freakin' Machine," and jumps into a casket supposedly containing the remains of Katie Vick. He simulates a sexual act and then makes a disgusting comment. In response to critics, WWE producer Kevin Dunn says, "While the subject matter is sensitive, on balance this was an attempt at dark humor capitalizing on the popularity of programs such as CSI, Six Feet Under, and X-Files."

October 22: The Big Show jumps to Smackdown and begins a rampage against stars such as Rikishi, The Undertaker, and Rey Misterio Jr. while demanding a shot at champion Brock Lesnar. Raw receives a number of Smackdown wrestlers in return for Big Show.

Killings: Strong championship run

Michaels: Comeback became complete

October 26: Heavyweight champion Ron Killings defeats Hotstuff Hernandez at the NWA's 54th anniversary show in Corpus Christi, Texas. Also at the event, junior heavyweight champion Jason Rumble beats Rocky Reynolds, and tag team champs Chris Harris and James Storm defeat Reynolds and A.J. Styles. There are other matches for the women's, North American, Texas state, Canadian, and U.K. championships. Richard Arpin of NWA Tri-State replaces Jim Miller as NWA president, and Fredric G. Rubenstein of NWA Over the Top succeeds Bill Behrens as vice president.

October 31: Moose Cholak dies (see page 30).

November 1: Former DX teammates Syxx-Pac (Sean Waltman) and Joanie Laurer make their engagement official at The Deep in Los Angeles. The lovebirds then head for Las Vegas for a vacation.

November 5: Brian Blair nearly pulls off an upset in a race for Hillsborough County commissioner in Florida. Blair, a Republican, leads the polls throughout the day, due in part to a last-minute campaign blitz that included Hulk Hogan's endorsement in a commercial that aired during the previous night's Raw. Democratic incumbent Pat Frank rallies to win with 51 percent of the vote.

November 17: Shawn Michaels wins a six-way match inside the "Elimination Chamber" and is awarded the Raw title at Survivor Series. The other participants are Chris Jericho, Kane, Booker T, Rob Van Dam, and defending champ Triple-H. Van Dam's dive from the top of a cage door causes "The Game" to suffer a crushed trachea. Four other new champions are crowned at the pay-per-view: Smackdown champion The Big Show (who beats Brock Lesnar), Smackdown tag team champions Los Guerreros (who defeat Kurt Angle and Chris Benoit, along with defending titleholders Rey Misterio Jr. and Edge), women's champion Victoria (who beats Trish Stratus in a hardcore match), and cruiserweight champion Billy Kidman (who ends Jamie Noble's five-month reign). Also at the event, D-Von Dudley reunites with Buh Buh Ray and Spike Dudley, and Scott Steiner makes his first televised WWE appearance in a decade when he attacks Christopher Nowinski of Raw and Matt Hardy of Smackdown.

November 20: Mr. Wrestling III does yet another run-in on a TNA pay-per-view, this time during Ron Killings' NWA title defense against Jeff Jarrett. After Mr. Wrestling III smashes a "Slapnuts" guitar over Killings' head, Jarrett pins him for the NWA belt. III un.masks to reveal Vince Russo underneath.

November 22: Billy Joe Travis dies (see page 30).

November 25: Steve Austin pleads no contest to misdemeanor assault charges filed after he was involved in a domestic incident with his wife, Debra, in June. A judge in Bexar County, Texas, sentences Austin to a $1,000 fine, one year's probation, 80 hours of community service, counseling for family violence, and a one-year prohibition on drinking alcohol, except during his wrestling performances.

November 26: NWA-TNA releases Syxx-Pac (Sean Waltman), stating that he informed officials that he would no-show his second pay-per-view within a month. Waltman counters that he decided to leave TNA because he doesn't want to work with Vince Russo, whom he feels has no respect for the business. He had been slated to team with Curt Hennig against NWA tag team champions Brian Lee and Slash.

November 29: Independent star Jeff Peterson dies (see page 30).

November 30: The original "Mr. Wrestling," Tim Woods, dies (see page 30).

December 4: Roddy Piper blames Vince Russo for the death of Owen Hart during a surprise appearance on NWA-TNA to promote his autobiography, In The Pit With Piper. Russo enters the ring to rebut Piper's rant, but "Hot Rod" refuses to give him the microphone. TNA officials insist that neither Piper nor Russo had orchestrated that part of the show in advance.

December 6: Lex Luger beats perennial rival Sting for the vacant World Wrestling All-Stars championship in Glasgow, Scotland. The WWA tour marks the return of both men to action since the demise of the AOL Time Warner-owned WCW in March 2001. Sting wins the title in a three-way match with Luger and Malice a week later. Sting and Luger, who are former WCW World tag team champions, also join forces during the tour.

December 7: Abdullah the Butcher debuts in Ring of Honor at the Murphy Recreational Center in Philadelphia. He and Homicide carve out a victory against The Carnage Crew, DeVito and H.C. Loc. "The Madman From The Sudan" causes a full-scale melee involving the much of the locker room before the night is over.

December 14: The final broadcast of Championship Wrestling, the latest incarnation of Memphis wrestling, airs on WMC channel 5. Unfortunately, the potentially historic program—which ended 30 years of local televised wrestling in Memphis—was only a repeat.

December 15: At Armageddon, Triple-H regains the Raw title from Shawn Michaels in a best-of-three-falls specialties bout, which includes a streetfight, a cage match, and a ladder match. Michaels wins the streetfight, but Triple-H rallies to score the second fall inside the steel cage and succeeds in climbing the ladder to recapture his Raw gold. Also at the pay-per-view, Kurt Angle gets help from Brock Lesnar's F5 to overcome the interference of Paul Heyman and A-Train en route to pinning The Big Show for the Smackdown title, Booker T and Goldust win a four-way elimination bout, for the Raw tag team belts, and Al Wilson prevents Dawn Marie from showing all the footage of her hotel room romp with his daughter, Torrie.

December 17: Raw champion Triple-H is diagnosed with a partially torn quadriceps and a massive hematoma in his right thigh. "The Game" thought he was simply suffering from a charley horse following a match against Jeff Hardy on Raw, but aggravated the condition during a house show in Fort Myers, Florida. He received an anti-inflammatory drug and had his right thigh heavily taped during his Armageddon match against Shawn Michaels. Triple-H tore his left quadriceps in 2001.

December 18: David Flair and The Road Warriors debut in NWA-TNA, as Flair joins Vince Russo's Sports Entertainment Xtreme group, and The Road Warriors join Bob Armstrong's band of old schoolers. In TNA's final pay-per-view of the year, Russo tears down the set to prepare for a new era in 2003.

December 19: Smackdown champion Kurt Angle undergoes arthroscopic knee surgery to repair torn cartilage. Angle had been suffering from the injury for some time, and WWE officials thought December—with a 10-day break incorporated into the touring schedule—was the best time for the procedure.

Angle: Slew himself a giant

December 27: Steve Austin promotes an autograph signing during a radio interview on Wise Guys, Black Guys, And Rabbis, airing in New York. Austin says that rigorous training and a special diet have enabled him to fine-tune his physique into a muscular 265 pounds—superb fighting shape for a return to WWE.

2002 Obituaries

April 19: Long-time wrestling and football great Ed "Wahoo" McDaniel dies of renal failure and diabetes at Houston's Cy-Fair Medical Clinic. McDaniel had great runs in Texas, the Southeast, and the Mid-Atlantic area, among other regions, and held numerous regional titles (including the National and U.S. heavyweight belts) before retiring in 1996. He was 63.

April 28: Six-time former NWA World champion Lou Thesz, who held that title for a total of 18 years between 1937 and 1966 and is considered by many to be the greatest wrestler of all-time, dies following a triple-bypass and an aortic valve replacement in Orlando, Florida. He had celebrated his 86th birthday just four days earlier.

May 14: Erich Kulas, the aspiring young wrestler who was involved in an infamous 1996 incident in an ECW ring in Massachusetts in which he bled profusely at the hands of New Jack, is found dead in his home in Cranston, Rhode Island. He was 22.

May 16: Former FMW President Shoichi Arai is found dead of an apparent suicide in Tokyo. He was 36.

May 16: "Big" Dick Dudley (real name Alex Rizzo), the mostly silent enforcer of the Dudley clan in ECW, is found dead in his apartment in New York. He had been suffering from numerous health problems since he was involved in a serious motorcycle accident in 2001. He was 34.

May 17: Davey Boy Smith, 39, is found dead of a heart attack during a vacation in British Columbia with his girlfriend, Andreea Hart. Smith began wrestling at age 15 and had great runs in the WWF as both a member of The British Bulldogs with Dynamite Kid and as a singles star. He also excelled in WCW, in Japan, and in Calgary. He was training his 16-year-old son Harry at the time of his death.

August 1: Don Owen, who promoted wrestling in Portland for 54 years (ending in 1992) and was one of the few regional promoters to survive Vince McMahon's national expansion in the 1980s, dies at the age of 90.

September 4: Former WCW promoter Mike Lima dies of a heart attack at his home in Clearwater, Florida. Lima, 39, had also been involved with the fledgling XWF.

September 21: Rocco Rock (real name Ted Petty) dies of a heart attack while driving from an independent show in Jersey City, New Jersey, to another in Philadelphia. He made his pro debut in 1978 but didn't make it big until 15 years later as one-half of the hardcore tag team Public Enemy in ECW. He and Johnny Grunge won four ECW and one WCW tag title together and also had several stints in the WWF. He was 49.

September 29: Mike "The Alaskan" York, an outstanding tag team wrestler in the 1960s and 1970s, dies of heart failure at age 61.

October 31: Ed "Moose" Cholak, one of the sport's best big men of the 1960s and '70s, dies a few days after suffering a stroke. He was 72.

November 22: Long-time Tennessee star and former WWF preliminary wrestler Billy Joe Travis dies of a heart attack at his mother's home in London, Kentucky. He was 41.

November 29: Independent star Jeff Peterson dies in Tampa, Florida, after a two-year-plus struggle with cancer. He was 21.

November 30: "Mr. Wrestling" Tim Woods, one of the most famous and most successful masked wrestlers in history, dies after suffering a massive heart attack in his home in Charlotte, North Carolina. Woods also wrestled without the mask during a pro career that started in 1962 and ended in 1983. He was 68.

2002: THE YEAR IN RATINGS

The following is a breakdown of the Nielsen ratings for WWE programming for every week of 2002. For cable programs, each ratings point represents approximately 860,000 households, while each ratings points earned for Smackdown (a broadcast network program) represents 1,067,000. The most recent ratings breakdowns are presented in "The Business Page" in each issue of PWI.

STATISTICS

WRESTLERS

On the pages that follow, you'll find statistics—height, weight, hometown, year (or specific date) of pro debut, and birthday—for hundreds of professional wrestlers worldwide. This list does not purport to be 100 percent comprehensive in presenting every active wrestler, but it does strive to be 100 percent accurate with the information it does present. Many birthdays and pro debuts have been double- and triple-checked through cross-references. Even so, errors may have crept into the list, and there is information that may yet be added (such as determining the specific date of a pro debut, not just the year, or month and year). We invite anyone with additions and/or corrections to this list to send your information to: PWI ALMANAC, Box 1148, Ft. Washington, PA 19034. We will update our list for next year's edition.

PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

Achievement award winners were first presented annually in the pages of Pro Wrestling Illustrated effective with our March 1982 issue, and continued to appear in the March edition until 2001, when it was moved to April. Prior to that, awards appeared in Sports Review Wrestling (1980 awards in the March 1981 edition), Sports Review Wrestling Annual (1977-79 awards in Spring 1978, '79, and '80 editions), and Victory Sports Series Wrestling Annual and Yearbook editions (1972-76 awards in issues #4, 7, 11, 14, and 18).

The Wrestling Observer Hall of Fame

The Wrestling Observer Hall of Fame was established in 1996 and has distinguished itself as the most respected platform for honoring those who have made outstanding contributions to the sport of professional wrestling.

The Hall of Fame selection committee consists of active and retired wrestlers and industry insiders, as well as journalists and historians. The ballots are presented and tabulated by Dave Meltzer, who has chronicled the sport in Wrestling Observer Newsletter for 21 years.

Inductees in the Hall of Fame include not only wrestlers, but others whose contributions to the sport have left a lasting impact. Unlike other sports, the Observer Hall of Fame is not restricted to retirees. Hall of Fame candidates must be 35 years old or have at least 15 years of experience in the business.

Voters are asked to choose up to 10 wrestlers on a ballot that typically includes between 30 and 40 names. Selectors can also choose as many non-wrestlers from the ballot as they feel are qualified.

In order to ensure voters are making choices within their realm of expertise, Meltzer breaks the recipients up geographically into three categories: America, Japan, and Mexico. For a wrestler to be voted into the Hall of Fame, the person must be included on at least 60 percent of the ballots received from those geographic-specific selectors.

To remain eligible for selection after failing to reach the 60 percent mark, a wrestler must be mentioned on at least 10 percent of the of the ballots from his region. If the wrestler receives less than 10 percent, he will be dropped from eligibility for a minimum of two years.

Although the Wrestling Observer Hall of Fame is not contained within a building, PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED recognizes it as the sport's official Hall of Fame, based on the credibility of its founder, the guidelines he created, and the qualifications of the selectors.

TITLE HISTORIES

On the pages that follow, you'll find a comprehensive listing of champions for the sport's major titles, both current and defunct. The information we've gathered comes from our own computer and text files; reference sources such as several decades worth of newspaper reports and arena programs; and a superlative reference tool, Wrestling Title Histories, edited by Royal Duncan and Gary Will. Listings for active championships are updated through December 31, 2002.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Buddy Rogers won a tournament in April 1963 in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first WWWF champion; he defeated Antonino Rocca in the final.

² Andre the Giant scored a controversial pinfall when Hulk Hogan lifted his shoulder at the two-count, but referee Earl Hebner (the twin brother of assigned referee Dave Hebner) continued the count. Andre's reign as champion lasted less than two minutes, as he then gave the belt to Ted DiBiase; WWF President Jack Tunney later ruled that transaction invalid, vacated the title, and ordered a tournament held for WrestleMania IV.

³ This was a tournament final at WrestleMania IV.

⁴ WWF President Jack Tunney was at ringside for the bout, but was knocked unconscious by the interfering Ric Flair. Undertaker's manager, Paul Bearer, also interfered by attempting to hit Hulk Hogan with his urn. Hogan ducked, and Bearer hit Undertaker instead. Hogan grabbed the urn, threw ashes in Undertaker's face, then pinned him. The following day, Tunney declared

- the title vacant, with a new champion to be determined at the January 19, 1992, Royal Rumble.
- ⁵ Ric Flair won the title by winning the 30-man Royal Rumble.
- ⁶ This was WrestleMania IX. Bret Hart had Yokozuna in the sharpshooter leglock. Mr. Fuji threw salt in Hart's eyes, enabling Yokozuna to make the pin. Hulk Hogan came to the ring, made an impromptu challenge to Yokozuna, and the two wrestled. Fuji tried throwing salt again during the match with Hogan, hit Yokozuna instead, and Hogan scored the title-winning pin in just 25 seconds. Total length of Yokozuna's reign: 2:07.
- ⁷ After Shawn Michaels vacated the title due to a knee injury, Bret Hart outlasted Steve Austin, Big Van Vader, and The Undertaker in a four-way elimination match to win his fourth WWF championship.
- ⁸ Upon orders from WWF head Vince McMahon, Earl Hebner declared that Bret Hart had submitted to Shawn Michaels' "sharpshooter," when, in fact, he hadn't.
- ⁹ Steve Austin lost the title in a September 27 triple threat match when he was simultaneously pinned by The Undertaker and Kane. The title was declared vacant one night later. When no official winner was declared in a match between Kane and Undertaker for the vacant title on October 18, a 14-man tournament for the belt was scheduled; this was the tournament final.
- ¹⁰ This was a special empty-arena, falls-count-anywhere match that was taped for broadcast during halftime of the Super Bowl on the USA Network's Halftime Heat.
- ¹¹ This was a three-way match also involving Triple-H.
- ¹² Triple-H won the vacant title by pinning The Rock in a six-man match. Vince McMahon had given it up on September 20.
- ¹³ This was a three-way match also involving The Rock.
- ¹⁴ Rock won the belt by pinning Vince McMahon in a six-man tag team match.
- ¹⁵ This match unified the WWF World and WCW World heavyweight titles.
- ¹⁶ This was a three-way match also involving Kurt Angle.
- ¹⁷ One night after Lesnar won the title, Smackdown GM Stephanie McMahon announced that he would be defending it only on Smackdown shows. Therefore, a week later, Raw GM Eric Bischoff created the Raw title and awarded it to Triple-H, meaning there was no longer an undisputed WWE World championship. From this point forward, PWI referred to this championship as the WWE Smackdown title.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Raw GM Eric Bischoff created this title after Smackdown GM Stephanie McMahon announced that Brock Lesnar would defend what had previously been the undisputed WWE World title only on Smackdown shows. He awarded it to Triple-H.

² This was a six-way "Elimination Chamber" match also involving Kane, Chris Jericho, Booker T, and Rob Van Dam.

WWE TAG/RAW TAG TEAM TITLE

(NOTE: The Worldwide Wrestling Federation was formed in 1963; the WWWF tag team title was known as the United States tag team title until 1967, when the title became vacant because Bruno Sammartino (whose tag team championship partner at the time was Spiros Arion) was unable to defend both the U.S. tag team title and the WWWF heavyweight title. From 1969 through 1971, the title was known as the WWWF International tag team title. In late-1971, the championship became known as the WWWF World tag team title.)

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Antonino Rocca and Miguel Perez were the first U.S. tag team titlists.
- ² Buddy Rogers had left Johnny Valentine and the title; Valentine chose Chief Big Heart as his partner.
- ³ Antonio Pugliese left the United States in June 1967; Spiros Arion chose Arnold Skaaland as his championship partner.
- ⁴ Professor Tanaka and Mitsu Arakawa had won the belts in June 1969 in a tournament in Japan.
- ⁵ The Mongols left the WWF in early-1971, bringing the International tag team belts with them.
- ⁶ This is a tournament final. On November 12, 1971, "Crazy" Luke Graham & Tarzan Tyler defeated The Mongols, thus quieting any disputes that the Mongols remained uncrowned champions.
- ⁷ In June 1975, Victor Rivera announced he was giving up his half of the title; Dominic DeNucci was allowed to choose a new partner, and chose "Irish" Pat Barrett.
- ⁸ The Executioners were stripped of the title as the result of a match against Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf that was televised on October 26, 1976, during which a third masked Executioner interfered.
- ⁹ Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won a three-team tournament, defeating The Executioners and Tor Kamata & Nikolai Volkoff.
- ¹⁰ This was a tournament final. Shortly after Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won the belts, Billy White Wolf suffered an injured neck during a match against Ken Patera; he and Strongbow gave up the belts.
- ¹¹ Bob Backlund & Pedro Morales won the title in two straight falls of a best-of-three-falls bout in this Shea Stadium contest. Backlund and Morales gave the belts back to the WWF shortly after the win, since Backlund was WWF World heavyweight champion at the time. The title was declared vacant and an elimination tournament ordered.
- ¹² This was the final round of an elimination tournament.
- ¹³ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Diesel and Shawn Michaels split up at The Survivor Series, on November 23, 1994.
- ¹⁴ Earlier in the day on September 25, WWF President Gorilla Monsoon stripped Diesel and Shawn Michaels of the title and returned the belts to Owen Hart and Yokozuna.
- ¹⁵ This was a tournament final; The Smokin' Gunns had been forced to vacate the title several months earlier when Billy suffered a neck injury.
- ¹⁶ This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Shawn Michaels walked out of the WWF for a brief period.
- ¹⁷ This was a four-way match that also featured The Road Warriors and The Godwins.
- ¹⁸ Jack and Funk appeared to win the title one night earlier in a "dumpster" match in Boston, but it was later determined that they failed to lock Gunn and James in the official dumpster for the win, so the title was held up and a rematch ordered.

- ¹⁹ This was a four-team match also involving Rocky Maivia and D-Lo Brown, and Billy Gunn and Jesse James.
- ²⁰ Mankind chose to defend the title on his own when Kane refused to team with him.
- ²¹ This was a three-on-two handicap match also involving the Hardys' manager, Michael Hayes. Bradshaw and Faarooq won when Bradshaw pinned Hayes.
- ²² This was a "Dark Side Rules" match in which Viscera, The Big Show, and Midian were the actual opponents for Mankind and The Rock.
- ²³ Because he was not getting along with The Rock at the time this match was held, Mankind refused to participate and instead sat outside the ring with his back turned to the action.
- ²⁴ This was a three-way ladder match also involving The Hardy Boyz.
- ²⁵ This was a four-corners match also involving The Hardy Boyz and Test & Albert.
- ²⁶ Christian & Edge won this match as the masked Conquistadors.
- ²⁷ Edge defended the title in a handicap match.
- ²⁸ This was a four-way dance that also includes The Dudley Boyz and Road Dogg & K-Kwik.
- ²⁹ This was a three-way TLC match also involving The Hardy Boyz.
- ³⁰ This was a match to unify the WCW and WWF tag titles.
- ³¹ This title evolved into what PWI now refers to as the Raw tag team title after Smackdown GM Stephanie McMahon created a tag team title to be defended exclusively on Smackdown brand shows.
- ³² This was a four-way elimination match also involving Buh Buh Ray & D-Von Dudley and William Regal & Lance Storm.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This was a tournament final.
- ² Moolah wrestled as Spider Lady and unmasked after the victory.
- ³ The title became inactive in 1990.
- ⁴ This was a tournament final.
- ⁵ Blayze (Madusa Miceli) threw the title belt in the trash upon arrival in WCW, leaving title vacant.
- ⁶ This was to fill the vacant title.
- ⁷ Though Debra had her clothes stripped off first in this evening gown match, she was still declared the winner by WWF Commissioner Shawn Michaels.
- ⁸ This was a four-way evening gown match held in a pool that also included Jacquelyn and B.B.
- ⁹ This was a lumberjill snow bunny match in which Wippleman dressed as a woman.
- ¹⁰ The title was ignored for several months after the WWF announced during the summer that it had ceased negotiations with Chyna on a new contract. This was a six-way match (also involving Ivory, Lita, Jazz, Mighty Molly, and Jacquelyn) for the vacant championship.
- ¹¹ A special stipulation in a tag team match pitting Stratus & Buh Buh Ray Dudley against Jazz & Steven Richards allowed the title to change hands if Stratus pinned Jazz.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ This was the tournament final for the newly created division.

² Armstrong was stripped at Clash of the Champions XX on September 2 for not defending within a 30-day period. A tournament was scheduled for early-1993 but never took place.

³ This was a tournament final.

⁴ Malenko gave up the belt several weeks after he won it when Jericho protested that he never signed a contract to wrestle Malenko, who earned his title shot by winning a cruiserweight battle royal under a mask on May 17. This match was for the vacant title; Jericho won by disqualification.

⁵ This was a four-way match also involving Blitzkrieg and Juventud Guerrera.

⁶ Lane was stripped of the title for reasons never made clear by WCW; Psicosis, who had been scheduled to challenge for it, was then awarded the championship.

⁷ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill a vacancy created when Oklahoma gave up the title.

⁸ This was a six-man match for the vacant title. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.

⁹ Crowbar & Daffney were declared co-champions after Daffney pinned Tammy Sytch in a mixed tag match also involving Candido in which the title was on the line.

¹⁰ Daffney won this match to become the undisputed cruiserweight champion.

¹¹ This was a three-way match also involving Disco Inferno.

¹² Storm awarded the title to Skipper.

¹³ Helms was renamed The Hurricane shortly after he debuted in the WWF-owned WCW.

¹⁴ After the WCW/ECW Alliance was vanquished at Survivor Series 2001, WWE eliminated its own light heavyweight title and renamed the WCW cruiserweight title the WWE cruiserweight title.

¹⁵ This was a three-way match also involving Billy Kidman.

NWA HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

(NOTE: The NWA that most fans know of today, the National Wrestling Alliance, was actually formed in 1948; a second NWA, the National Wrestling Association, came into being in 1929. At various times throughout this century, the lineage of the title has been broken. Special attention should be paid to the late-'20s and early-'30s, during which time the world title splintered into several factions and lineage remains fuzzy at best. As a result we've done our best to highlight major breaks from the main line, and reconnect the lineage where appropriate.)

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ During the first few years of the century, George Hackenschmidt had won world championship tournaments in Italy, Germany, and England. As a result of this match, by defeating American champion Tom Jenkins in two straight falls, he became recognized as top champion in North America.
- ² George Hackenschmidt left the ring, refusing to return, and the referee awarded the title to Gotch, who retired in 1913; his last match was a victory over George Lurich on April 9.
- ³ Charlie Cutler had defeated Henry Ordeman and Jesse Westegard in a tournament, and had laid claim to the world title.
- ⁴ Earl Caddock was awarded the title by the referee when Joe Stecher refused to return to the ring after the second fall.
- ⁵ As a result of this match, Dick Shikat became recognized as the first champion of the National Wrestling Association (NWA), a division of the National Boxing Association.
- ⁶ Henry DeGlane won the title by disqualification.
- ⁷ This match on Long Island, New York, was billed as a world championship match, and was designed to halt the controversy that was splitting the sport at the time. Jim Londos was subsequently stripped of his title for refusing to meet the winner of this bout. Ed "Strangler" Lewis later affirmed his claim on the title with an October 10, 1932, victory over Jack Sherry.
- ⁸ Ed Don George had been claiming rights to the world title ever since he defeated Henry DeGlane in Boston in 1933. Danno O'Mahony, because of his victories over Jim Londos, Ed Don George, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, became the closest thing to undisputed world champion at the time, representing a unification of sorts of the splintering of the world title that had taken place for several years.
- ⁹ During his title reign, Ali Baba was disqualified in a match against Dave Lewin held in Newark, New Jersey. The State Athletic Commission reversed the match decision and allowed Ali Baba

- to keep the title. Soon thereafter, however, a rule change was made which stated that the title cannot change hands on a disqualification.
- ¹⁰ The NWA decided to recognize Everett Marshall as champion because Steve Crusher Casey was out of the country and failed to defend the title on a regular basis.
 - ¹¹ The National Wrestling Alliance was organized in July 1948. At that particular time, Orville Brown was recognized as champion. Forced to retire due to injuries received in a November 11, 1949, auto accident, Brown relinquished his claim on the title. Lou Thesz was scheduled to meet Brown in a title match in St. Louis on November 25, 1949.
 - ¹² Time of the match: 20:38. Ric Flair is (according to WCW officials in April 1992) the first WCW World champion; Sting, therefore, as of April 1992, is a one-time NWA and one-time WCW World champion. In September 1991, Flair signed with the WWF and the NWA title was declared vacant.
 - ¹³ This is a tournament final.
 - ¹⁴ The title was declared vacant in September 1993 when WCW withdrew from the NWA. It was renamed the WCW International title, held in the year that followed by Rick Rude, Hiroshi Hase, Rude again, Sting, then Flair again, but was finally abandoned when it was unified with the WCW World title at Clash of the Champions XXVII on June 23, 1994.
 - ¹⁵ This is a tournament final.
 - ¹⁶ This was a three-way match also involving Brian Anthony.
 - ¹⁷ This was a tournament final. Previous champ Naoya Ogawa voluntarily gave up the title.
 - ¹⁸ The title was held up following the bout between Corino and Shinya Hashimoto on October 13 in St. Petersburg, Florida, which was stopped when it was ruled Corino could no longer properly defend himself.
 - ¹⁹ Hashimoto defeated Steve Corino and Gary Steele in a three-way bout to fill the vacant title.
 - ²⁰ Shamrock won a 20-man battle royal to claim the title, which became vacant when the NWA stripped previous champion Dan Severn. Severn had previously announced he would be unable to appear and defend the title at the inaugural NWA-TNA pay-per-view on June 19.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ In December 1981, the Andersons were stripped of the title for being unable to defend the belts due to an October 1981 injury to Gene Anderson.

- 2 This was a tournament final.
- 3 This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Rick Steamboat announced his retirement on December 25, 1983.
- 4 Though Ivan & Nikita Koloff won the belts, any pair of the trio of Ivan & Nikita Koloff and Krusher Khrushchev were allowed to defend the title.
- 5 This was a tournament final. Mike Rotundo & Steve Williams were stripped of the title after their May 7, 1989, defense against The Road Warriors, where Dan Spivey and Kevin Sullivan interfere on their behalf by attacking guest referee Nikita Koloff.
- 6 The Steiners are regarded as the last NWA World tag team champions and the first WCW World tag team champions. A tag team tournament to fill the vacancy was held July 12, 1992, at the Great American Bash. The tourney was won by Terry Gordy & Steve Williams. Co-recognition of the champions as NWA/WCW World tag team champions continued through September 1, 1993, when WCW withdrew from the NWA, and the NWA in turn withdrew recognition of the champions, at the time Arn Anderson and Paul Roma, who then became known strictly as WCW World tag team champions.
- 7 This was a tournament final. Rick & Scott Steiner were stripped of the title in late-July 1991 when Scott was forced out of action with a torn left biceps muscle.
- 8 Lord Steven Regal was allowed to substitute for the injured Brian Pillman.
- 9 The title was inactive for two years after WCW withdrew from the NWA. This was the final match of a tournament to crown new champions.
- 10 This was the final of a tournament held to fill a vacancy created when The Rock 'n' Roll Express vacated the championship.
- 11 This was a match held to crown new champions after Gannosuke & Goto vacated the title a month earlier.
- 12 The Rock 'n' Roll Express was awarded the title soon after it became vacant late in 1997.
- 13 This was a four-way match also involving Kit Carson & Khris Germany and Tully Blanchard & Tom Prichard.
- 14 The title was held up after Nelson & Sbracchia failed to appear for a scheduled title defense against Carson & Germany on March 3, 1999, in Dallas due to inclement weather. Nelson & Fuller won the match for the held-up title by disqualification.
- 15 Fulton substituted for an injured Reno Riggins.
- 16 The title was declared vacant soon after NWA-TNA began running shows in June 2002; this was a tournament final.
- 17 Chris Harris and Brian Lee were the last two men left in the ring at the end of a 20-man Royal Rumble-style battle royal, which meant their respective teams got to wrestle each other for the vacant championship later that same night.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ This was a tournament final.

² This was a tournament final; the title had been declared vacant earlier in 1987 when Tatsumi Fujinami and Kengo Kimura split up their team.

- ³ IWGP officials declared the title vacant when Scott Steiner failed to appear for a scheduled title defense. Rick Steiner was allowed to choose a partner and wrestle Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta for the vacant title.
- ⁴ This match was held to fill the title vacancy created when Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta stepped down from the championship shortly after Muta won the IWGP heavyweight title on May 3, 1995.
- ⁵ The title was declared vacant a few days prior to this bout when it was determined that Masa Chono & Hiroyoshi Tenzan couldn't defend the championship on this date due to personal reasons (Chono's father passed away).
- ⁶ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Keiji Muto and Chono gave up the title due to Muto's knee injury.
- ⁷ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Keiji Muto, previously a co-holder of the title, signed with All-Japan.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Pat Patterson won a September 1979 tournament in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first Intercontinental champion.

² This was a tournament final. The Ultimate Warrior was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney shortly after his WrestleMania VI WWF World title win over Hulk Hogan.

- ³ Razor Ramon and Rick Martel were the last two competitors left in a 20-man battle royal to determine the top contenders to the title. Shawn Michaels was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney, who read a statement prior to the battle royal claiming the action was due to Michaels having failed to meet certain contractual obligations.
- ⁴ The title had been held up earlier in the evening as the result of a controversial match between Jeff Jarrett and Bob Holly. This rematch filled the title vacancy.
- ⁵ Shawn Michaels was forced to forfeit the title to Dean Douglas at this In Your house pay-per-view due to an injury that occurred a week earlier.
- ⁶ The title had been held up earlier in the evening after a controversial match between Goldust and Vega; this was a rematch.
- ⁷ This was a tournament final; Johnson had been forced to vacate the title after suffering a kidney injury in an altercation with Faarooq.
- ⁸ This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Steve Austin was unable to defend the title due to a spinal injury.
- ⁹ Steve Austin forfeited the title to Rocky Maivia who was awarded the belt by WWF head Vince McMahon.
- ¹⁰ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Helmsley was stripped due to a knee injury.
- ¹¹ After Jericho and Chyna simultaneously pinned each other in a December 28 match, Stephanie McMahon-Helmsley ruled that they were both the Intercontinental champ and that both could defend the title.
- ¹² This was a three-way match involving co-Intercontinental champs Jericho and Chyna as well as Hardcore Holly. As a result of his win, Jericho became the undisputed champion.
- ¹³ Benoit won the belt in a three-way match by pinning Chris Jericho.
- ¹⁴ Chyna won the belt by pinning Trish Stratus in a tag team match pitting Stratus & Venis against Chyna & Eddie Guerrero.
- ¹⁵ This was a three-way match also involving Kurt Angle.
- ¹⁶ This was a match to unify the WWF Intercontinental and WCW U.S. titles.
- ¹⁷ Eric Bischoff ordered this title unified with the European title on July 22 in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Van Dam defeated Jeff Hardy in that match.
- ¹⁸ Eric Bischoff ordered this title unified with the hardcore title on August 26 in New York, New York. Van Dam defeated Tommy Dreamer in that match.
- ¹⁹ Kane was the final Intercontinental champion, as the title was unified with the Raw title when Triple-H pinned Kane on October 20.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This was a tournament final.
- ² Goldust impersonated champion Hunter Hearst Helmsley for this match, but WWF Commissioner Sgt. Slaughter allowed the title change to stand.
- ³ McMahon won the belt by pinning X-Pac in a tag team match. The stipulation on the match said that if someone pinned X-Pac, he would win the title.
- ⁴ McMahon retired the belt shortly after beating X-Pac at WrestleMania XV, then reactivated it and awarded it to Midian several months later.
- ⁵ Jarrett gave the title to Henry as a reward for helping him beat Brown for both the European and Intercontinental championships the previous night.
- ⁶ This was a three-way match also involving D-Lo Brown.
- ⁷ This was a three-way match in which Jericho pinned Chris Benoit to win the title.
- ⁸ Hardy was the final European champion, as Eric Bischoff ordered it to be unified with the Intercontinental title (as the Intercontinental title) on July 22. Rob Van Dam beat Hardy in that unification match in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Mankind had been awarded this new title by Vince McMahon on November 2, 1998, as a reward for his loyalty to the WWF owner and his Corporation.
- ² The title had become vacant six days earlier when champion Jesse James was injured in a locker room altercation and rendered unable to defend it. Holly and Snow were the top two contenders.
- ³ This was a three-way match also involving Al Snow.
- ⁴ Immediately after defeating Bossman for the belt, Smith awarded it to Al Snow.
- ⁵ This was a three-way match also involving The Big Show.
- ⁶ Hardcore Holly was the champion at the end of a 10-man, 15-minute hardcore battle royal in which the title changed hands 10 times.
- ⁷ Holly actually pinned Steve Blackman in a three-way match to win the title.
- ⁸ This was a four-way match also involving Steve Blackman and Al Snow.
- ⁹ Kane actually pinned The Big Show in a three-way match to win the title.
- ¹⁰ This came during a four-way match in which the title could change hands even if the champion wasn't the one who was pinned.
- ¹¹ This title change took place during an eight-way match in which the man holding the title at the end of a six-minute period would be declared the champion. One week later, Intercontinental champion Rob Van Dam defeated Tommy Dreamer to unify it with the hardcore title, thus retiring the hardcore title.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ According to World Championship Wrestling, Ric Flair—who had been known worldwide as the NWA World champion—was acknowledged as the first WCW World champion during this reign.
- ² Ric Flair had been stripped of the WCW World title on July 1 after he could not come to a contractual agreement with WCW. Lex Luger and Barry Windham were determined to be the top contenders to the title.
- ³ Randy Savage won the title in a 60-man battle royal at the World War III pay-per-view event. Hulk Hogan lost the title to The Giant on October 29 at Halloween Havoc due to a clause in the contract placed by Jimmy Hart that the belt could change hands on a disqualification; since the disqualification was due to Hart's interference, the title was declared vacant and put up for grabs in the World War III battle royal.
- ⁴ Ric Flair won a triangle match against Sting and Lex Luger by countout earlier on the card to determine a challenger for Savage's title that night.
- ⁵ Sting was ordered to surrender the title on January 8 because of the controversial endings of both the match in which he won the World title from Hogan (December 28) and the rematch the next night. This was a match for the vacant title.
- ⁶ Nash simply laid down and allowed Hogan to pin him in this match.
- ⁷ This was a four-corners match also involving Sting and Hollywood Hogan.
- ⁸ This was a four-corners match also involving Bill Goldberg and Kevin Nash.
- ⁹ Savage pinned Nash in a tag team match that had a stipulation that said Nash would lose the belt if someone pinned him.
- ¹⁰ Bill Goldberg had apparently won the belt from Sting in a special challenge match on October 24, but one night later, the title was declared vacant because Sting vs. Goldberg was not a sanctioned match and because Sting attacked the referee after it was over. Hart beat Benoit in the finals of a 32-man tournament.
- ¹¹ Due to the controversial nature of his victory over Bill Goldberg the previous night, Hart gave up the title on this night, then won it back by beating Goldberg later.
- ¹² This was a match for the vacant title. Bret Hart had to give it up due to a head injury.
- ¹³ Chris Benoit's victory was overturned a night later because Sid's foot was under the ropes when Benoit applied the Crippler crossface. This match for the vacant title.
- ¹⁴ This was yet another match for the vacant title, as Nash stripped Sid for failing to beat the proper Harris brother before beating Nash the previous night.
- ¹⁵ This was the final match in a tournament for the vacant title. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.

- ¹⁶ Arquette won the title by pinning Bischoff in a tag team match pitting him and DDP against Bischoff and Jarrett. The man scoring the winning pin got the title.
- ¹⁷ This was a three-way cage match also involving Dallas Page.
- ¹⁸ Vince Russo awarded the title to Jarrett because Flair was injured.
- ¹⁹ This was a three-way match also involving Scott Steiner.
- ²⁰ Nash gave the title to Flair.
- ²¹ This was a match for the vacant title. Russo gave it up earlier in the night.
- ²² This title was renamed simply the World title after the WWF vanquished the Alliance at Survivor Series On November 18 in Greensboro, North Carolina.
- ²³ Chris Jericho also defeated WWE World champion Steve Austin on December 9, 2001, and thus unified the two championships as the undisputed WWE World title.

WCW WORLD TAG TEAM TITLE

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ The NWA and WCW world tag team titles had been unified and defended together since 1991, but this changed when WCW withdrew from the NWA on September 1, 1993, and the NWA in turn withdrew recognition of the champions, who at the time were Arn Anderson & Paul Roma. Anderson & Roma were then known strictly as the WCW World tag team champions. Lord Steven Regal was allowed to substitute for an injured Brian Pillman in the match in which Anderson & Roma won the belts.
- ² Syxx substituted for Kevin Nash, who was sidelined with a knee injury.
- ³ Because Sting and The Giant couldn't get along and wouldn't defend the title together, the WCW Executive Committee ordered them to wrestle each other in a singles match, with the winner getting the title and the right to select the co-holder of the title; Sting won and chose Kevin Nash.
- ⁴ Scott Steiner was allowed to defend the title on Hall's behalf (with The Giant) in a match against Rick Steiner and Buff Bagwell; Rick won the title by pinning The Giant after Bagwell walked out on him. The next night he chose Kenny Kaos to be the co-holder of the title.
- ⁵ This was the final match of a double-elimination tournament for the vacant title, which had been basically ignored during the previous few months.
- ⁶ This was a three-way match also involving Chris Benoit and Dean Malenko.
- ⁷ Kanyon was allowed to substitute for the injured Raven.
- ⁸ The trio of Bam Bam Bigelow, Dallas Page, and Kanyon had been permitted to defend the title in any combination of two.
- ⁹ Because Misterio injured his knee and was unable to wrestle, he and Konnan were stripped of the title. This was a three-team match for the title that also involved Konnan and Billy Kidman and Brian Knobs and Hugh Morrus.
- ¹⁰ Hall and Nash were stripped of the title on December 27 because Hall was unable to wrestle due to a knee injury. A tournament to determine new champions got underway that same night.
- ¹¹ This was a tournament final. Previous champs Scott Hall & Kevin Nash had been stripped earlier in the evening when Hall failed to show up at the arena on time.
- ¹² This was a tournament final. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.
- ¹³ Jindrak & O'Haire won a battle royal for the title, which became vacant when Disco lost to Ernest Miller a week earlier after saying Miller could strip Guerrera & Misterio if Miller pinned him.
- ¹⁴ Skipper substituted for an injured Disco.
- ¹⁵ This filled the title vacancy created when Commissioner Mike Sanders stripped Nash & Page.
- ¹⁶ This title was unified with the WWF World tag team title when The Dudley Boyz beat The Hardy Boyz at Survivor Series on November 18.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Wahoo McDaniel was stripped of the title in September 1981 after being injured by Abdullah the Butcher. A tournament was ordered to fill the title vacancy.
- ² This match was a tournament final.
- ³ Sgt. Slaughter was awarded the title when Wahoo McDaniel was unable to show up for a title match as the result of having sustained an injured left leg at the hands of Magnificent Muraco and Roddy Piper.
- ⁴ Greg Valentine was awarded the title when the match was halted due to a bloody gash over Roddy Piper's left ear that rendered him unable to continue.
- ⁵ The title was held up and vacated after this bout due to the interference of Tully Blanchard, who hit Rick Steamboat in the head with a chair.
- ⁶ This match was a tournament final.
- ⁷ This match was the final bout in a best-of-seven series to fill the vacancy created in May 1986 when Magnum T.A. was stripped of the title for attacking NWA President Bob Geigel.
- ⁸ This match was a tournament final. Dusty Rhodes had been stripped of the title in April 1988 for hitting NWA President Jim Crockett with a baseball bat.
- ⁹ This match was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Lex Luger won the WCW World title on July 14, 1991.
- ¹⁰ This match had been intended as a bout to determine the number-one contender to Rick Rude's title. When Rude was stripped of the belt in December 1992 for failing to defend it (he was injured), the bout instead became a contest to determine a new champion.
- ¹¹ This match was to fill the title vacancy. The title had been declared vacant in May 1993 as the result of a controversial double-pin situation between Dustin Rhodes and Rick Rude.
- ¹² Steve Austin had been awarded the title earlier in the evening via forfeit when Steamboat, his original opponent for the night, was unable to wrestle due to a back injury.
- ¹³ Big Van Vader is stripped of the title in early-April 1995 for multiple violent offenses.
- ¹⁴ This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.
- ¹⁵ The title was declared vacant in September after Flair suffered a shoulder injury.
- ¹⁶ This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.
- ¹⁷ Hart and Page were deemed the top two contenders when Goldberg gave up the U.S. title upon capturing the World title.
- ¹⁸ Jarrett was awarded the title by new WCW Commissioner Kevin Nash just one day after he was stripped of it.
- ¹⁹ This was the final match of a tournament. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.
- ²⁰ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill a vacancy created when WCW Commissioner Ernest Miller stripped Scott Steiner for using the Steiner recliner, a hold he had banned, on Mike Awesome on July 9.
- ²¹ Rection beat Storm and Hacksaw Duggan in a handicap match.
- ²² Booker T simply awarded the title to Canyon.
- ²³ This title was unified with the WWF Intercontinental title when Edge beat Test at Survivor Series on November 18.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This was the final round of a tournament to determine the NWA television champion. Dick Slater's U.S. title, of course, was not on the line in this match. Also note that in a semifinal encounter vs. Assassin #2, Mark Youngblood put feet up on middle ropes to gain the pinfall.
- ² This was a tournament final. The title was declared vacant when Dusty Rhodes was unable to defend the belt due to an injury.
- ³ This was a first-blood match at Starrcade '86.
- ⁴ The belt had been held up since July 23, 1989, when Sting pinned The Great Muta, but tapes later showed that Muta's shoulders were off the mat.
- ⁵ This was a best-of-three-falls match.
- ⁶ This was Clash of the Champions XX. It was also a no-DQ match with Paul E. Dangerously locked in a cage suspended above the ring. Rick Steamboat won with a flying bodypress off the top rope.
- ⁷ This was the final round of a tournament to determine a new champion. Scott Steiner was stripped of the title when he went to the WWF in November 1992.
- ⁸ Stevie Ray defended the title on behalf of his brother while Booker T was out with a knee injury.
- ⁹ Scott Hall was awarded the title when Steiner was too injured to defend it at Mayhem, but soon thereafter, he threw the belt in the garbage.
- ¹⁰ Hacksaw Duggan began making title defenses after retrieving the belt from the garbage.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Jimmy Snuka and Wildman Bellomo won separate battle royals to advance to a match in which the winner was awarded the first ECW heavyweight title.

² Shane Douglas won the title by forfeit when Tito Santana did not appear for the match.

³ Shane Douglas pinned Terry Funk in an eight-man tag team match; due to a prematch stipulation, the title changed hands. Also, on August 27, 1994, Eastern Championship Wrestling was renamed Extreme Championship Wrestling.

⁴ The Sandman defeated previous champion Mikey Whipwreck and Steve Austin in a triangle match for the title.

⁵ Stevie Richards substituted for Raven in a tag team match that had as a stipulation that if he got pinned, Raven would lose the belt.

⁶ Shane Douglas was victorious over both Sabu and Terry Funk in this three-way elimination match.

⁷ This was a three-way match also involving Masato Tanaka.

⁸ Corino pinned Justin Credible at the end of a four-man "Double Jeopardy" match after both Lynn and The Sandman had been eliminated.

⁹ This was a three-way match also involving Justin Credible.

¹⁰ ECW ceased running shows in mid-January and officially folded a few months later.

The unlikely paring of New Jack and John Kronus won the ECW tag title from Buh Buh Ray & D-Von Dudley on September 20, 1997. Just one year earlier, these two were bitter rivals.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This is a four-team tournament final.
² This is a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when The Suicide Blonds were stripped of the belts in July 1993.
³ This was a win via forfeit.
⁴ Shane Douglas was allowed to substitute for the injured Johnny Gunn. After the bout, he turned against Tommy Dreamer.
⁵ This was a three-team match that also included The Gangstas.
⁶ 2 Cold Scorpio defeated Rocco Rock in a singles bout; due to a prematch stipulation, the tag team belts were on the line.
⁷ Mikey Whipwreck defeated 2 Cold Scorpio in a singles bout; due to a prematch stipulation, he won both the TV and tag team belts. Whipwreck chose Cactus Jack to be his partner.
⁸ John Kronus defended the title solo, since his partner in The Eliminators, Perry Saturn, was still sidelined with a knee injury.
⁹ The Dudleys were awarded the belts when Mustafa Saed was not able to compete due to an injury.
¹⁰ Candido & Storm also defeated B. Mahoney & Axl Rotten in a three-way match for the title.
¹¹ Buh Buh Ray won the belts for his team by pinning Van Dam in a singles match.
¹² This was a three-way match also involving Tommy Dreamer & Masato Tanaka.
¹³ This was a three-way tournament final also involving Tommy Dreamer & Jerry Lynn and Simon Diamond & Swinger. Credible & Storm vacated the title when Credible won the ECW World championship.
¹⁴ Danny Doring & Roadkill were the last team to hold the belts.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ August 1960 saw the formation of the American Wrestling Association. Title recognition was given to Verne Gagne who, at the time, was generally recognized as the uncrowned champion in wrestling.
² It was later discovered that Mr. M was Dr. Bill Miller.
³ Verne Gagne held the title until his retirement on May 10, 1981.
⁴ Nick Bockwinkel was awarded the title due to Verne Gagne's retirement, his No. 1 ranking at the time, and his status as former champion.
⁵ Nick Bockwinkel was scheduled to challenge Stan Hansen for the belt. Hansen left the arena, and it was determined by AWA President Stanley Blackburn that if he did not return by the end of the last match on the card, the title would be awarded to Bockwinkel by default. It was.
⁶ The title was officially awarded to Curt Hennig on May 13, 1987, when, by a 4-2 vote, an AWA review board determined through videotape replay that there was no evidence Larry Zbyszko illegally aided Hennig.

⁸ Larry Zbyszko was stripped of the title on December 12, 1990, when he left the AWA for WCW. Shortly thereafter, the AWA folded.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Tiny Mills & Stan Kowalski were NWA International and NWA World tag team champions, and held the belts when the latter title was renamed the AWA World tag team title.

² Len Montana's leg was broken in a March 1961 bout; Hardboiled Haggerty chose Gene Kiniski as his replacement partner.

³ Hardboiled Haggerty and Gene Kiniski had split up while champions; Haggerty chose Bob Geigel as his new partner.

⁴ This was the final of a nine-team tournament. The title had been declared vacant earlier in the month when Otto Von Krupp was injured.

⁵ Larry Hennig's leg had been broken some time before this match by Verne Gagne, forcing Harley Race to choose a replacement partner.

⁶ Red Bastien chose Crusher as his new partner after Hercules Cortez was killed in an automobile accident in Minnesota on July 23, 1971.

⁷ Pat Patterson and Ray Stevens were awarded the belts by AWA President Stanley Blackburn when Jim Brunzell injured himself in a softball game and the championship team of Brunzell and Greg Gagne were unable to defend the belts.

⁸ Verne Gagne was vacationing in Europe at the time of the bout; Adonis and Ventura were awarded the belts by default.

⁹ Doug Somers was allowed to substitute for Boris Zukhov, who had moved from the AWA to the WWF.

¹⁰ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant on September 18, 1989, when Ken Patera was injured by Wayne Bloom and Mike Enos.

¹¹ D.J. Peterson & The Trooper were the last champions. The AWA folded shortly thereafter.

WRESTLING SUPERCARDS

In a sport that has no beginning and ending points within a calendar year, the supercard has often served as the culmination of a year's worth of activity, the one card on which lasting feuds are brought to a conclusion. Just what constitutes a supercard is a matter of interpretation. The size of the venue, the use of wrestlers who normally do not compete in the geographic area in which the card is held, the number of high-level championship matches—these are all considerations. The mere fact that a promoter touts his card as a supercard (e.g. any David Von Erich Parade of Champions after number three) does not necessarily make it so. One thing that is definitely so: The concept of the supercard did not begin with the advent of pay-per-view.
